State of the World 2010: Transforming Cultures from Consumerism to Sustainability

Erik Assadourian

Worldwatch Institute

We are delighted to welcome Erik Assadourian, Project Director of this year's State of the World 2010 report, published annually by the Worldwatch Institute based in Washington DC. The State of the World reports are among the most influential and widely studied analyses of global trends in environment change and sustainable development.

If you'd like to read the report ahead of the talk, it is available from Earthscan: www.earthscan.co.uk/sow2010
